

Children in the heart of our planet

Aneliya Radoeva, Kindergarten №90 „Vessa Paspaleeva“, Sofia

The child rediscovers the world in a different way. Every child is a new universe. Young children all over the world are an ocean of virtues. But people never get bored of admiring and enjoying the future of mankind in the face of the world's best creatures - CHILDREN. In children's eyes we can see dreams, games. In the children, in a strange, unexplained and magical way, we find the source and draw from it virtues - love, hope, sincere faith, spiritual powers and inspiration. And sometimes, in their embrace we find the most powerful force.

Life on Planet Earth is a marvelous, scary and wonderful thing! Children all over the world are part of this. They must keep the planet Earth, so that their children can then enjoy themselves as they do now. They are the light of life. The children of the new generation must protect our planet, to be healthy, educated and joyful in life. The most important thing for children is playing with other children, friendships they create, and games with their parents. Children are the most important mission in the heart of the planet. Humanity's attention to the problems of millions of children from all over the world related to violence and harassment that remain hidden or underestimated. The smallest people on the planet - the children we can not do without them - are our future, but our great care.

Many of us often wonder what planet we leave for our children. The question, however, puts the opposite: what kind of children do we leave / educate, train / for our planet? This is an important issue for our parents, grandparents, seeking an answer. There are kids who want the most expensive clothes or phones, but there are those who fight every day with life for a bit of bread and water. In today's young generation, there is a lack of morality and education. Everyone insults and hurts the other, but we do not ponder how we hurt the person and how he feels. We are still destroying our planet Earth without being interested in what will happen to it after years. There are children who die of hunger and others who have no family. How animals disappear because we have decided to build roads or buildings in place of their habitats. Now we may not realize that, but a day will come when we all will regret our actions.

Therefore, the teacher is called / has a mission / to educate with knowledge, skills, pre-school age and ecological elevation, so we will preserve the Planet Earth. Environmental education is part of the overall shaping of the child's personality. Environmental education should begin from the pre-school age of the child to make sense of its personal role and responsibility as an individual in public efforts to make nature a cleaner and more beautiful Earth. Teachers and parents should include in children's environmental education: love and protect the nature clean, encourage the child's interest in nature, the monitoring of natural phenomena. Cognitive entertaining games for animals, plants, annual seasons affect the environmental education of the little man. Surveillance as a means of family education aims to develop a variety of interests and needs in the child, to teach him to appreciate the beauty of nature. Communicating with nature at any time of the year - family walk in the woods, the river and nature gives many opportunities for rest for the whole family, health, recreation and tourism. Constant parental encouragement of children will help to improve the child's environmental culture.